Allows for Easier Handling of Your AR Pistol

The AR-style pistol market has seen incredible growth in recent years, thanks in part due to the introduction of pistol-stabilizing braces. However, more manufacturers are also contributing to the shootability of these compact platforms, and the Reptilia CQG AR-15 Grip is one of the latest innovations on the market. Compared to standard A2 grip profiles, the CQG AR-15 Grip features more of a vertical design, allowing a user to place their hand higher up on the profile of the grip for improved comfort and control. The grip is textured at the front and rear to improve purchase, and the design is made using high-strength polymer for added durability. Each Reptilia CQG AR-15 Grip is compatible across the range of AR-15 and AR-10 rifles and pistols on the market, as well as the SIG Sauer MPX and MCX platforms. All grips are made in the USA.
