A Flagship Action from a Prominent Rifle Manufacturer

The signature product from Zermatt Arms, the TL3 Short Action Receiver is everything you need in a high-end rifle action. Each rifle receiver is machined from hardened 416 stainless steel and features an integral recoil lug, Savage small-shank thread tenon, floating, interchangeable bolt head, controlled-round feed action, spiral-fluted bolt, mechanical ejector and a bayonet-style firing-pin assembly. Available in 2 mag cut options for either AICS type or AW type magazines. The AICS cut will accept all AICS-pattern magazines loaded with rounds that have a COAL of up to 2.980. AW cut actions will also accept both AW and AICS-pattern magazines. Zermatt warns users that running AICS-magazines in an AW-cut receiver can cause feeding issues. If upward pressure is placed on an AICS-pattern mag in the receiver, the bolt may not be able to go forward. The Zermatt Arms TL3 Short Action Receiver come with a medium tang, which provides the same footprint profile as a Remington 700 action, so the TL3 should be able to drop into any standard 700-footprint chassis or stock with no inletting required.
